Dine Under the Holiday Lights at Audubon Supper Club

(New Orleans, La.) – Get an exclusive holiday dining experience amongst a dazzling light display and winter dreamland at the next Audubon Supper Club Dinner on Wednesday, December 4, at Audubon Zoo.

A quick Zoo train ride will transport guests to meet Santa's newest helpers, the Zoo's adorable alpacas. Animal care staff will share with guests all that is involved with caring for this beloved South American species as well as funs facts about their individual personalities. Guests will also have the opportunity to feed the herd.

The next stop will be a private dinner amongst the mesmerizing holiday light display at Audubon Zoo. At this exclusive event, guests will enjoy an intimate holiday dinner while gazing at the breathtaking lights and glowing wonderland of Audubon Zoo Lights Presented by Children's Hospital New Orleans while it is closed to the public.

The signature attraction at Zoo Lights is a larger-than life, silk-lighted replicas of some of the Zoo's most popular animals, including a 19-foot peacock.

"As we celebrate the alpaca, I was inspired by their native home to bring our guests South American-flavor infused dishes such as, Arroz con Pato and Snapper Saltimbocca," said Audubon's Executive Chef Alan Ehrich. "This unique dinner also allows our guests to experience the holiday season at Audubon Zoo like never before."
