The focus of this year's fundraisers, which generate more than $1 million annually, is Audubon's conservation efforts for giraffes, including the Alliance for Sustainable Wildlife, Audubon's conservation breeding partnership with San Diego Zoo Global.

"Hancock Whitney is thrilled to support Audubon and celebrate the spotlight on giraffe conservation at the 42nd annual Hancock Whitney Zoo-to-Do," said Hancock Whitney Regional President Gary Lorio. "Audubon's groundbreaking efforts to protect these majestic—and endangered—animals is inspiring, and we are proud to support this endeavor."

The 31st annual Zoo-To-Do for Kids presented by Children's Hospital will take place on Friday, April 26, with general admission 6 p.m. until 9 p.m. Live entertainment will be provided by the Super Stars and guests will enjoy tasty sips and snacks, arcade games, giant inflatables, and arts and crafts.

"Children's Hospital and Audubon Zoo have a long history of working together in this beloved corner of Uptown New Orleans, centered around children and families," said President and CEO of Children's Hospital John R. Nickens IV. "As the health experts for kids in Louisiana, Children's Hospital is thrilled to support Zoo-To-Do for Kids, a great opportunity for families to spend time having fun together."

"Audubon Zoo is a community treasure in New Orleans, and its vitality is important to the economic success of our community," said Market Executive for Regions Bank in New Orleans Graham Ralston. "The bank is proud to sponsor Zoo-To-Do for Kids this year, and we look forward to seeing children and families come together for a special night of fun at one of the best zoos in the country."
